2 pumpkin and lentil soup, we know it’s soup because it all gets blended at the end

B:
You get a large onion and a couple of cloves of garlic and ginger and you chop them all really finely – she sometimes uses a food processor. Then put some oil in a pan and heat it up and you just chuck the stuff in the oil with a couple of bits of lemon grass and she sometimes puts in a whole chilli just to spice things up a bit. Then you cook it quite quickly, but you have to keep stirring ‘cos you don’t want it to burn. Then you throw in the pumpkin cut up into cubes. You add lentils, roughly a cupful and a tin of coconut milk. And then add about litre or so of chicken stock and bring it to the boil and then once it’s boiling, reduce the heat and leave it for fifteen minutes or so, till the pumpkin’s soft. Take out the lemon grass and blend it till it’s smooth. Sprinkle a bit of chopped parsley, but basil’s nice as well and a pinch or two of salt.
